

Diagnosis Disclosures

Help residents & family understand important medical information

Briggs Diagnosis Disclosures

- Define the disease process/risks in easy-to-understand language
- Familiarize the resident & family with clinical symptoms
- Identify possible complications to establish realistic expectations
- Help you gain trust & build relationships with the resident & their family
- Reduce your risk for future litigation

Briggs Diagnosis Disclosures

When you educate residents and their families on the resident's clinical condition(s) and the type of care and treatment they can expect you will:

- Gain trust and build relationships with the resident and their family
- Reduce your risk for future litigation

Diagnosis Disclosures help you plan for your resident's current and changing medical needs.

They also help provide difficult medical information to residents and families.

The disclosures assist residents and families in making informed decisions by:

- Defining the disease process in easy-to-understand language
- Familiarizing the resident and family with clinical symptoms of the disease
- Identifying possible complications to establish realistic and accurate expectations

Each disclosure includes an Acknowledgment of Receipt to help reduce the risk of litigation.

The disclosure(s) review with the resident and family should be completed and signed upon:

- Admission
- Quarterly
- With a significant change of resident condition
- Upon the request of the resident, resident representative, guardian and/or facility

Diagnosis Disclosures available in print

The printed disclosure forms are 3-part. IMPORTANT: Prior to filling out the disclosure, remove Part 1.

- Part 1 prints front and back with the diagnosis disclosure information
- Parts 2 & 3 are the Acknowledgement of Receipt, original and copy
- All parts print in black ink
- Parts 1 & 2 white paper, part 3 is canary
